

SWTF Weekly Digest #29-2020
December 8, 2020

Executive Directors Message of the week:

Good Morning everyone!

We are a little more than a week away from our last quarterly meeting for the Commission (December 17th), which will run from about 1-4pm. I hope you can make it! I will be checking in with some of you to make sure you will be there!

Here in Albuquerque, most of the light snow we received a week or so ago has melted, except for those chilly shady spots, but the breath of winter is still in the air – and so is COVID-19. As time passes and the virus is spread around, it continues to impact the lives, jobs, and governments around the region. I can certainly say that it has effected the communities that I work with, and made normal things much harder. I am pretty sure that there is light at the end of the tunnel though, and that the light isn't an oncoming train. Only time will tell what 2021 will bring.

There are a few new opportunities this year – and even an AFS book sale if you need to fill in your library, or need a gift idea for the fish lover near you. Mostly though, it is time to use up that paid time off if you have it, and get ready for the holiday season – in quarantine times. What a strange year.

Around the region, many tribes and pueblos are entering a time of transition, and preparing to bring in new leadership, and administrations. Wish those individuals the best of luck, and the strength they need to face a changed world.

As always, stay safe, stay healthy, and we'll talk to you next week 😊

Adam Ringia, Executive Director
